

Daryl Wayne Buxbaum was born on January 29, 1951 to Walter and Gilda (Mork) Buxbaum. He was raised in Enid, MT until 1965 and then attended Sidney High School where he graduated in 1969. Daryl married Connie Olson of Vida, MT on September 18, 1976. They had two children, Scott Wyatt and Shaelee Crystal. Daryl loved his family and enjoyed spending time with them. Daryl and Scott enjoyed farming and ranching together. Daryl and Shaelee both loved animals and they liked playing with all the cats and dogs together. Daryl loved visiting with family, friends, and all his nieces and nephews. His children and grandchildren (Jaylynn and Laura Buxbaum) were his pride and joy.

Daryl loved Eastern Montana and remained in Sidney for his entire life. He was a hardworking man that wore many hats. Some of those hats included farming, ranching, trucking, and being a member of the Rau School Board for 9 years. His passion in life was working along side Walter and Scott on the family farm and ranch that he loved for 40 + years. Daryl raised cattle and always enjoyed branding with many friends and family. Daryl also grew sugar beets, corn, wheat, barley, and alfalfa hay. Later in his life, Daryl worked as a truck driver hauling water for Paraffin Oil Service, Mitchell's Oilfield Service, and Hi-Line Trucking for 16 years. He loved mornings and would dive into work with a smile on his face.

Daryl adopted a rotational grazing system on the ranch in 1992 and entered into a Conservation Easement on the ranch in 1998. He chose these practices because he wanted the ranch to be preserved. Daryl and his family enjoyed the peacefulness and beauty of the ranch. Daryl always said "I live in God's country."

Daryl loved all kinds of music and would even sing in the pickup from time to time while driving into town. One of his favorite songs was "Ramblin' Man" by the Allman Brothers. Daryl also loved all types of motorcycles. He took pleasure riding on quiet Montana highways and "rambling" over the rolling hills of the ranch.

Daryl had a great laugh that will be dearly missed. It was one of those happy laughs that would make anyone laugh along with him when they heard it. Daryl had a big heart and took pride in helping others. People could always rely on him to be there with a helping hand or the perfect tool to fix the problem. He will always be remembered by friends and family especially all his nieces and nephews for being playful and having fun.

Daryl Wayne Buxbaum, 66, hung up his hat on February 21, 2017 due to natural causes at his home SE of Sidney.

Daryl is survived by: his son, Scott (Jodie) Buxbaum, Ronan, MT and two granddaughters Jaylynn and Laura; his daughter Shaelee (Tyler) Patrenger, Denver, CO; his mother, Gilda Buxbaum, Sidney MT; sisters, Vickie (Lar) Borg, Sidney, MT, Melody (Kirk) Wambach, Cartwright, ND; many nieces and nephews; a host of cousins and other relatives, and his former wife of 37 years Connie Buxbaum.

Daryl is preceded in death by his father, Walter Buxbaum and his sister Alletta Scibold.

My Ranch
WX Buxbaum D5
Ranch

My ranch to me is not just land
Where bare unpainted builds stand-
To me, My ranch is nothing less
Than all created loveliness.

My ranch is not where I must toil
My hands in endless dreary soil
But where, through waiving grass
and water ponds,
I've learned to walk, and talk, with God.

My ranch, to me, is not a place
Outmoded by the modern race
For here, I think, I just see less
Of evil, greed, and selfishness.

My ranch's haven-here dwells rest,
Security, and happiness-
Whate'er befalls the world outside
Here faith, and hope and love abide.

And so my ranch is not just land
Where bare unpainted buildings stand-
To me, my ranch is nothing less
Than all God's boarded loveliness.
